Richard Rapp, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Rapp, 110 Redwood Street is employed as an actor for the second consecutive season with the well-known summer stock company, The Lake Erie Summer Theatre.

To further his theatrical background and knowledge of the theatre, last year he studied dancing under the tutelage of the famous dancing artist, Katherine Dawn Williams, of Warren, and he ardently pursued the study of dramatic art under the local instructor of drama, Miss Anna Louise Kahl.

He graduated from Warren High School in June 1942.

He has had leading roles in the last two plays at the Lake Erie Summer Theatre under the direction of the famous Russian actor-director, Nicholas Grey, Broadway director for the Schuberts.

The Lake Erie Summer Theatre employs only professional casts, many coming directly from Hollywood and the New York stage.

At the close of the summer stock season in the latter part of August, he will go to New York City to accept a position with the famous Clare Tree Major's Children's Theatre. He will go through an intensive period of strenuous four week rehearsal and following that he will tour the country from Maine to California in one of their road productions.

Old Records Being Sought For Salvage

A call has been issued by members of Chief Complanter Post, No. 135, American Legion, for old, worn out or discarded phonograph records. The Legion posts throughout the country are collecting these records and turning them in to the proper authorities where they will be melted and used to make new records which will be sent to USO and other service headquarters for the enjoyment and pleasure of men in the armed forces.

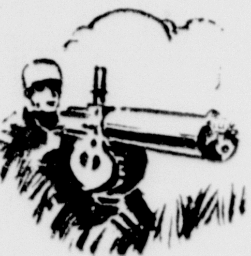

Commander William I. Walker, of Chief Complanter Post, asks that all Legionnaires and members of the Legion Auxiliary bring their records to the Legion Post between now and August 10th.

Friends of the Legion who wish to help in this cause may also donate any records they so desire. They may call the Legion Home (576-J) and leave their name and address and some member of the Legion or Auxiliary will call for them. Or they may bring them to the home direct where they will be salvaged and put back into use for the enjoyment of service men.

Commander Walker asks that this important bit of salvage be taken care of between this date and the time of the next Legion meeting which will be held August 10th.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The 50-caliber Browning machine gun is one of the most efficient long range weapons used by U. S. fighting forces. It is effective at ranges up to 2,000 yards and fires about 600 forty-five caliber bullets per minute.

One of these guns costs about $1,500, while a thirty-caliber machine gun costs approximately $600. Our fighting forces need thousands of these rapid-fire guns. Even a small town or community can buy many of them by uniting in the purchase of War Bonds. At least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day will do the trick.

Air Warning Methods Told To Observers

Stressing the importance of the U. S. Army's Air Warning Service in the nation's defense during the present war, Sgt. John C. Williams, of the First Fighter Command at Buffalo, last night gave a small crowd gathered in the high school auditorium a very interesting picture of how air observation posts throughout the area keep a close check on all aircraft being flown.

Those in attendance included volunteer civilian observers from several posts in this district, as well as other interested persons.

Sgt. Williams stressed the need for additional volunteer workers in the observation service. He pointed out that it is imperative that the posts be manned constantly and stated that persons who are willing to assist in this work should contact their local American Legion headquarters.

The speaker explained in detail the manner in which flights of airplanes are reported by the observers at the various posts and how these reports are received at the district headquarters in Buffalo.

Prior to his talk, Sgt. Williams showed a film which depicted the manner in which the air warning service is coordinated with other defense organizations for the protection of the public.

The speaker was introduced by Richard Hansen, of the local American Legion post, sub-district director of the air observation posts.

Irwin, priorities analyst of the War Production Board, will be in Warren next Monday evening, August 3, for the purpose of rendering assistance in making out applications on PD-25A. Attention is called to the fact that under the Production Requirement Plan the properly filled out forms must be filed by August 10. In a telephone conversation with Secretary Kottcamp of the C. of C., Harry B. Joyce, the head of the War Production Board office in Erie, stated that while manufacturers requiring material amounting to less than $5,000 for a three-months period are not required to use form PD-25A, he would advise them to use it nevertheless, or they may find it impossible to secure their needed allocations for materials. ## Fine Program Is Selected For Concert

A popular and interesting program has been selected for the concert by the massed bands of Warren and vicinity, to be presented this evening at 7:30 o'clock in front of the Beatty school. In case of rain the program will be presented indoors in the school. The concert is free and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Specially featured will be a male quartet of young singers, who have appeared in public on numerous occasions in recent months. The quartet will sing "Marching Men" by Ashford. Members of the quartet are Harold Knappenberger, first tenor; Robert Dietrich, second tenor; James Shortt, first bass, and Norman Shoff, second bass, with Loren Wright as accompanist.

The program will include two overtures, the ever-popular "Light Cavalry" and another frequently heard, "Princess of India." Another number which is often heard these days in programs by U. S. service bands, "Texarkana," will be played. And, since no band concert is complete without permitting the trombone section to rise and shine, the band will play "Lasso Trombone," from a famous family of trombone smoozers.

The military nature of the program will be brought out by the numerous marches chosen to fill out the program, including the Navy march, "Anchors Aweigh," and the "U. S. Field Artillery March."

An organization meeting for the board of directors and all committee members of the recently formed Warren Community Music Association will be held in the Y. W. C. A. cafeteria tomorrow evening at six o'clock, it was announced today.

Committees have been appointed to cover all phases of the organization's activities and they will be instructed in their duties during the meeting. The executive officers are pleased with the response of members to appointments on committees and the general attitude of all who were contacted augurs well for the success of the new venture, it was stated today.

Members have been urged to be prompt at tomorrow evening's meeting, so that the large volume of business may be transacted by eight o'clock to make it possible for those having rehearsals to attend them.

Stuart said McDonald had been telephoning Miss Shane, a 1941 Westminster College graduate, for dates. She had "kept company" with him for several months three years ago, the chief said.

Miss Shane's sister, Jean, 15, who was visiting her here, said:

"Chauncey had been trying to see her for a long time. When he called, she usually had someone else tell him she was out. He telephoned from Youngstown Monday night and talked to Isabel. He told her he was going to South America."

Isabel "quit seeing" McDonald when she returned to Westminster after her summer vacation in 1939," Jean said. McDonald continued to seek dates, and for several months Isabel never walked the campus without a companion, her sister said.

Sister Jean and her parents, Miss Shane is survived by another sister, Marjorie, 13.

"They are equipped with new vehicles and new weapons," the agency said.

The DNE announcement of SS troops moving from Russia to the occupied countries apparently is part of a campaign which German propagandists have been building up for several days in an effort to show that Germany is prepared for any attempted invasion of France or the low countries.

tensive and deeply echeloned fortification works on the north French channel coast.

Later the Berlin radio broadcast that more than 200,000 skilled workers "have used a half-million tons of concrete monthly for fortifications along the channel coast."

Still another Nazi-inspired dispatch said the General Christianensen, German military commander in the Netherlands, had inspected defense installations along the Dutch coast, recently completed and taken over by the German army.

At the same time German military sources in Berlin permitted themselves to be quoted as saying they believed that an invasion attempt would be made by the Allies, dispatches from Bern, Switzerland, said.

High Court Considering Nazis' Pleas

The defense freely conceded that all of the eight accused attended a school near Berlin and received instructions and directions for sabotaging manufacturing and transportation facilities but declared that all the petitioners had testified that they did not intend to commit sabotage.

"In the case of two or more petitioners," the brief said, "this testimony was definitely corroborated by other evidence produced by the prosecution. All of the petitioners deny their guilt."

The defense acknowledged that all of the petitioners were citizens of the German Reich except Herbert Haus Haupt, 25, youngest of the defendants, who was brought to this country when five years old and acquired United States citizenship through his parents' naturalization.

Justices Murphy and Douglas were absent from the bench when the proceedings started. The chief justice announced that Douglas was en route and would participate.

There was no announced explanation of Murphy's absence but it had been speculated previously that he might disqualify himself as he has been serving in the army.

Addressing himself to Attorney General Biddle, Stone said he was informed that his son 'Major' Lauson H. Stone was assigned to the defense staff and asked Biddle if it were true.

Biddle replied that the defense and prosecution staffs were agreed that Major Stone did not participate in the habeas corpus proceeding, adding that "counsel for both sides join in urging you to sit."

"You may proceed," the chief justice said by way of ending any question as to whether he would participate.

The prisoners—only seven have joined in the motion—will not be in court.

Some legal experts who declined to be quoted by name expressed the opinion informally that the mere fact that Justice Stone summoned his eight associates from scattered vacation points indicated a strong likelihood that the motion would be granted and the court would proceed to rule on a habeas corpus petition.

The central issue is the legality of a presidential proclamation of July 2 denying to certain persons the right to "seek any remedy or maintain any proceeding, directly or indirectly, or to have any such remedy or proceeding brought in their behalf, in the courts of the United States, or of its states, territories, and possessions, except under such regulations as the attorney general, with the approval of the secretary of war, may from time to time prescribe."

If the motion should be granted, it would be up to the supreme court to decide what to do with the suspected saboteurs, whether to remand them to a district court for trial or discharge them.

Rock fragments are hammered from large, white boulders by Chinese natives of northern Yunnan. The fragments are pulverized, mixed with soy bean cream, and eaten by the peasants, who relish the crushed rock as a substitute for meat.

GIVE BOYS IN UNIFORM A LIFT

The Sharon Herald offers the following suggestion which will meet with hearty approval by everyone, and especially those who have relatives in the armed forces of the country:

It is difficult to travel any sizeable distance these days without encountering hitch-hikers in Army uniforms. To men earning only $21 or $30 per month, that form of transportation is quite popular.

Perhaps the service men are hurrying home to their wives or parents while on a limited furlough. Or perhaps they are on their way back to their Army or Navy post after spending a few welcome days with their loved ones.

Most soldiers and sailors are located many miles away from home. Some must travel distances of 2,000 miles or more from camp to home and back again. Such distances are much too far and expensive for their modest financial means to handle. Thus we find our service men hitch-hiking and soliciting rides on the nation's highways.

American armed forces are composed of the very highest type of young men that this country has to offer. Criminals are not allowed in the armed services of the United States, except under very restricted circumstances. Therefore you need not fear when you invite a soldier, a sailor or marine to ride with you.

No doubt many of today's soldiers were—only a short time ago—giving rides to other soldiers before they themselves joined the service. Now they are earnestly asking a return for the favors they granted in the past.

Any rides given men in the armed forces are definitely appreciated. Seldom does a soldier fail to thank a motorist very graciously for a ride—even if it be for only a few miles.

Soldiers are not the common highway "bums" that composed the nation's army of hitch-hikers a few years back. They are respectable representatives of our great nation who are serving us for very meager pay. They deserve all that we can offer—and more.

So, give them a lift. Your son or your brother may be in the armed forces now or in the near future. Certainly you would want them to be given every consideration by the motoring public.

LIBRARY'S APPRENTICE CLASS

Five Warren girls have completed the public library's apprentice course this summer. They are the Misses Janet Ross, Margaret Barthurst, Joan Weiler, Francis Russell and Georgia Spinney.

In the librarian's annual report recently presented to the Warren Library Association, the apprentice class is mentioned as one of the most gratifying ventures recently made by the library. In the late fall of 1940 a careful selection of six girls was made from a group of fifteen applicants. A regular course of study, including lesson assignments, class work and supervised practice work, has been completed by these five girls. One class project was a community recreational survey which is to be added to the library's information file.

All of the members of the class have qualified and have been used as regular library substitutes. One member is now employed on the library staff. The others are planning to continue their studies in college this fall with the profession of librarianship as their objective.

Those in charge of the concert by massed bands this evening at the Beaty school have plans to outwit the weatherman — if it rains the program will be held in the gymnasium, but in case of clear skies it will take place on the lawn.

Take your old phonograph records to the American Legion or turn them over to one of its members. They'll see that they are made available to recreation centers in the army. Do it now!

Motorists in this area who have occasion to drive into New York state are learning to their sorrow that the forty-mile limit is being enforced there. Better hold her down if you tour the Empire state.

Closet hooks were invented years ago, but still some Warren men don't get the hang of them!

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt probably can be rated now as one of the world's foremost amateur military experts.

While associates say Mr. Roosevelt makes no pretense of being an expert (he got quite a laugh out of Hitler's "intuition" telling him to take direct command of the German army in Russia), as supreme commander of American armed forces he has to know plenty about what it takes to wage war all over the world.

Since early summer of 1940, when the Nazis' conquest of western Europe scared this country into a big defense program, the President has had extraordinary schooling in military problems. Since Pearl Harbor that schooling has been intensive.

HE has almost daily discussions with the top men of the Army and Navy, frequent meetings with the Pacific War Council and conferences with military missions from Russia, Britain and China.

He gets the "lowdown" on war plans and developments from Admiral Ernest King, commander-in-chief of the fleet and from General George Marshall, chief of staff of the Army. He sees secret analyses made by our military "best minds" of German and Japanese power and weakness and of the progress of their campaigns.

He studies confidential reports from General MacArthur in Australia, from General Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of U.S. forces in Europe, and from Admiral Leahy, recent ambassador to Vichy. He sees similar reports from military leaders in the Pacific, the Atlantic and the Caribbean, in Africa, China, Iceland, the Aleutian islands and Hawaii.

The extent of the President's influence on military decisions is a government secret. When, and if, members of the joint Army-Navy board disagree, the President's suggestions undoubtedly have considerable weight because of his position as supreme commander. His ideas on grand strategy by the United Nations, based largely on information obtained from his military advisers, obviously have much influence with Winston Churchill and Josef Stalin.

WHILE Mr. Roosevelt has frequently demonstrated that he is strong-willed and not bashful about asserting his authority, friends say he fully consults the experts before making a military decision. He has too much sense, they assert, to make a major decision against general opposition by the professional military people.

Army and Navy men point out, moreover, that Admiral King, General Marshall, Admiral Leahy and General MacArthur aren't what you would call "yes men." "Imagine 'Old Eagle Eye Ernie' (King), tough and tough-tongued as he is, leading to anybody in a matter of naval strategy," commented one veteran officer.

As background for his present "advanced course" in military problems, the President has an unusually extensive knowledge of world geography, study since boyhood of naval warfare and experience as assistant secretary of the Navy during the first World War.

MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—This Greek had a word for it too. His name was Spyros Skouras. . . . When George, the King of the Greeks, came to New York, Spyros Skouras gave a dinner for him at the Astor hotel. . . . Mr. Skouras is president of Twentieth-Century Fox. . . . Why did Skouras choose the Astor? . . . "I'm sentimental," he confessed, "I used to be a busboy there."

IT IS Gypsy Rose Lee who tells this tale on Joan Crawford. The strip dancer had it straight from her sister, Joan Havoc, in a letter the other day. . . . While Joan was filming "They All Kissed the Bride," they wanted her to appear in a scene that showed her changing her clothes in an office building after being out all night. . . . Joan reneged. . . . She felt the scene would offend her family. . . . Alexander Hall, the director, scratched his head. . . . Then he sent next door to the "My Sister Eileen" set and asked Joan Havoc to come over for a moment. . . . Hall explained Joan's reluctance. . . . "Honey," said Joan, "the trick is to peel and show as little as possible. It's a cinch. Gypsy taught it to me and I've been getting away with it for years."

YOU have to hand it to John Pierce for doing a great job with those operetta revivals at Carnegie Hall. When he put on "The Chocolate Soldier" they hoped it would go two weeks, and the ticket takers compelled the "Soldier" to hang on an additional week. Then, in a week's time, he produced "The Merry Widow," and the critical opinion is that again Pierce has done one slick piece of producing and directing.

Pierce is no novice at musical shows and the dance. He will never be president of the USA because he was born in Mexico City. But he knows show business, and he knows how to impart that knowledge to others. It was Pierce who "coined" the Johnny-one-note number for "Babes in Arms," a novelty that has been used extensively ever since by directors everywhere. He put 25 dancers in a straight line across a stage and had them all do different steps. . . . Pierce got going early in life. At 18 he staged and directed "Billie" for George M. Cohan. He has danced, directed, and taught dancing in Hollywood and in New York.

His greatest disappointment? . . . That came in the tough days. . . . When he was trying hard to keep from being hungry. . . . He was trying so hard that he forgot to look in his mailbox one morning—and overlooked a letter from Bill Grady offering him a job with Cohan in London. . . . When Pierce finally retrieved the letter from the mailbox and rushed over to Grady's office, Cohan had sailed—and there went a chance to work with one of the world's great producers.

However, Pierce didn't starve. Shortly after that he ran into one of those Hollywood "breaks" and went to the films. He's been doing okay ever since.

BY FLOYD PASSINGER, Sports Editor

The first note of interest for that return match was heard from one member of the public golf team: recently, and he says most of them are anxiously awaiting the planned second match against the Conewango Valley Country Clubbers. . . . Such a match, say some public par-busters, would result in a much closer finish than the first, for the pay-as-they-play boys have toured the club course at least once now, and many of them have improved their game considerably with hopes of getting that second crack at the Conewango linksmen. . . . It looks like the second match, if staged, will be held about the middle of August. . . . Currently the club championship tournament is under way and will monopolize the interests of the country club golfers for the next week or more. . . . Tim Creal rules favorite to scamper off with the crown which he has worn before, but Hank Fisher and a couple of others may give him a lot of trouble. . . . The State Hospital baseballers haven't been as determined just to win a game at any other point this season as were they Monday night when they brushed the Eagles, 5-0, and tightened the Sunset League race for a series berth. . . . They're still in the running, and the spirit that carried them through a highly successful season last summer seemed to be present once again, the Swansons really carrying the fight to their foes, something they haven't done in quite a spell.

A hundred or more fans are getting a bit sour on the type of baseball, if you can call it baseball, that's seen in Sunset League contests involving the Forgers with any other league opponent, due to the fact that the boys aren't trying. There are a majority of followers who wouldn't come forth with the Bronx cheer if the Irvine clouters racked up victories by counts of 21-0 or so, if every man on the field, on both teams, really played with his heart in the game. But to juggle the lineup with shortstops pitching, third basemen catching, etc., tends to crush any interest the sports public might have. . . . Incidentally, while they've dealt a kayo punch to the Sunsets, making a big mistake in joining as the powerhouse they are, the Morrisons have at the same time done themselves a great deal more harm. They've made it nigh onto impossible for even the champions of the Sunset circuit to pick up more than peanuts as a post-season cut, and the exhibitions on Russell Field are directly responsible for the continued "blue" Sundays realized weekly on Wilder Field. Down in Irvine, the baseball is outstanding, but the style of the Forge has left them far from a favorite club with the supporting customers, and there will be more miniature gates such as last week's, when only 30 fans walked through the turnstiles with a ticket stub, until this major fault is remedied. As for the local loop, it's an eventide recreational program, and at the price one pays, he doesn't lose regardless of the kind of game. Since the first contest, most spectators also have known it's practically a one-team league, have cared little, though, because they, as well as this agent, realize that a lapse of three years in any sport isn't leaving any token with the faster brand of ball seen in past years. Another summer and, if we're still around by that time, we're certain things will be different.

FINAL TRIAL FOR HARNESS RACE HORSES

Old Orchard Beach, Me., July 29.—(P)—The Richfield Stake, worth $3,000 and regarded by many light harness devotees as a final rehearsal for the Hambletonian, brings a dozen three-year-old trotters to the Kite Track today.

Colby Hanover, favorite for the $40,000 trotting classic at Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 12, and winner of last week's National Stake here, goes to the post with Fred Egan in the sulky, and will be the favorite. George Benham's Cannon Ball, rated second in early Hambletonian books, also was named to go. Tom Berry, who drove Volstead to victory in last year's Richfield, was posted to hold the reins on Green Diamond, which took one heat of the National Stake from Colby Hanover.

Because of two successive postponements, today's card also includes the $4,125 National Stake for two-year-old trotters and the National Stake for two-year-old pacers, worth $2,042.50.

Bums Win, 7-6, Drop Nightcap, 9-1; Bucs Lose to Boston, 4-3

BY JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer
Baseball is generally considered a "form" sport, but sometimes its form assumes the strangest shapes. The Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals came to grips yesterday in what was expected to be a desperate doubleheader, with the National League Champions striving to hold their seven-game lead and the Redbirds making what might be their last challenge. The set-up was such that 33,212 paying customers turned out on a Tuesday to pack the Dodgers' Ebbets Field and thousands of others failed to get seats. So what happened? The two Titans stumbled around for six hours and split the bill, settling nothing in particular. Brooklyn won the first game, 7-6. In the nightcap the Cards scored seven runs in the seventh

BATAVIA VISITS FALCONS TONIGHT

Batavia plays in Jamestown this evening in a PONY League game that should attract considerable attention, with the Clippers a trouble-making outfit and the Falcons scrapping for the lead they recently yielded to the Ocean Oilers. Hornell's Pirates will visit Jamestown Thursday, Friday and Saturday, providing our nearby PONY League entertainment for this week, according to the league schedule.

NEW IDEA—GOOD IDEA

Atlanta, July 29.—(P)—Baseballs fouled out of Atlanta's Southern Association park are going to be worth war bonds and stamps to the finders. All baseballs will be stamped. Those grabbing a fouled baseball can exchange it at the front office for whatever amount is stamped on it. "We'll have a $50 war bond bill in play and the other amounts will vary from the smallest stamp up," said Earl Mann, club president.

Not everybody with a dollar to spare can shoot a gun straight—but everybody can shoot straight to the bank and buy War Bonds. Buy your 10¢ every pay day.

MRS. MURDOCK TAKES A CASE

by George Harmon Coxe

Chapter 32
The Chump

WHEN Jack Fenner had finished his inspection of the body he closed the closet door and leaned back against it. His lean face was morose now, and his mouth was a thin hard line. "It doesn't make sense. From what you say it sounds like a blackmailer set-up, but Nick was no blackmailer." "Nick?" Joyce said. "You knew him?" "I knew him." "But who was he? What did he do?" "Do?" Fenner made a harsh, throaty sound. "He was a chump. Like me. A private dick."

He went over to the window and looked out. The two women watched him but said nothing. They had told their respective stories, omitting only the part where Delia had seen Ward Allen's car that first night, and now Joyce knew that there was nothing more to be said until Fenner asked. She had never seen this side of him before, but she had heard her husband speak of things that were borne out by what had just been reflected in his face.

"Nick Hardacker was no blackmailer," he said, "and if he was this was the first time. That's why he was poor. That's why he had to do business from a dump like this. That's why the lining of his coat was worn out and maybe that's why he's in there now." His gaze was on them, but he wasn't looking at them. He was looking right through them at something beyond, his upward-slanting eyes narrowed and brooding.

"His gun is still on him. I think he tried to pull it. There's a new rip in that coat lining. I saw he was going to get it. Maybe he didn't have a chance but he tried. And the gun caught in the lining and I guess the slug hit him then and the gun dropped back in the holster."

He blinked and his gaze shifted to Joyce. When he spoke again his voice was level, businesslike. "You're sure it was this guy Raeburn who came out?" "Positive."

Fenner went over to the desk. "He got it sitting in the chair. The guy dragged him to the closet." He pointed with a toe to some marks on the threadbare rug. "His heels made those."

He looked down at the open telephone directory. He picked up the scratch pad Joyce had seen. "Terrace 9501. That your number?" "Yes," Delia said. "This is not Nick's writing. He was lefthanded. What about the voice you heard? Could you tell if it was his?"

Delia hesitated, slowly shook her head. "I'm sorry. I thought it was but—I couldn't be sure. I'd only heard him that once." "It doesn't matter. Either he called before Raeburn came, or while he was here—with Raeburn making him go—he was killed first and Raeburn phoned you. We can tell better maybe when we find out when he died."

Too Many Angles
HE CAME around the desk and stood in the center of the room, his coat open and his thumbs hooked in his vest pockets. "About that envelope," he said, "there are a couple of angles to that, too. Either Raeburn knew you were coming and waited—after he'd lugged Nick in the closet—"

He stopped to look at Delia. "Where'd you have the envelope?" "In this pocket," Delia patted it.

He felt for the wall switch and then, before he snapped it on, stopped short. The door of the room had been closed. Why?

Great U-Boat Base Raided by the RAF

 "There was much heavy cloud over the city but large fires were seen by a number of the crews who went down below the cloud in face of fierce opposition from anti-aircraft guns and searchlights to bomb from a low level."

Before the British announcement of the raid, the Germans said they had shot down 26 planes over Hamburg.

The air ministry announced that other pilots flying Hurricanes, Bostons and Havocs damaged air-traffic railways and German-controlled communications in northern France, Belgium and Holland and attacked channel shipping last night.

The new assault was made only a few hours after Air Marshal Sir Arthur T. Harris, chief of the bomber command, had broadcast to Germany the warning of heavy blows to come from the British and Americans.

"All that has happened so far will seem very little," Harris said. "x x x you have no chance. Soon we shall be coming every night and every day, rain, blow or snow—we and the Americans."

More submarines are built in Hamburg than in any other center in Germany.

The British reported a single German aircraft bombed a point on the coast of East Anglia by daylight this morning, causing a small number of casualties and some damage.

This followed attacks during darkness last night by a small number of raiders over eastern England. Their bombs "did some damage and at one point a small number of casualties was caused," a British communiqué said.

Berlin, (From German Broadcasts) July 29.—(P)—German troops have thrown stubbornly resisting Russians farther southward on the lower Don front and, supported by strong air forces, have crossed the Mancyh and Sal rivers, the German high command said today.

The Mancyh and Sal are tributaries which flow westward into the Don near its mouth.

Jap Invaders Pushed Back By U. S. Force

 A headquarters spokesman said it still was uncertain whether the probing action of the Japanese was a mere patrol maneuver or the preliminary advance to an attack on Port Moresby.

The spokesman said there was no evidence of reinforcements for the Japanese forces at Gona Mission, which originally were estimated to number between 1,500 and 2,500.

A Japanese flying boat attempted to make a third attack on Townsville on the northeast coast of Australia last night, but Allied night fighters intercepted it, forcing the pilot to drop his bombs in the sea, the communiqué said.

Allied bomber units, meanwhile, attacked the airdrome in Japanese-occupied Keopang, Dutch Timor, again and scored hits in the target area.

AFTER 21 YEARS WILL PAY DEBT TO SOCIETY

Philadelphia, July 29.—(P)—Clarence Arters was on his way back to Iowa today, facing a return to the prison from which he escaped 21 years ago but hoped Iowa justice would mark "paid" on his debt to society.

The 53-year-old ship's cook who built a reputation as a model husband and father in the two decades after his escape told Judge Byron Milner yesterday he had decided to give up his fight against extradition.

"I guess that I'll feel better if I pay my debt to society," he said. He fled the prison camp in 1921 after serving 13 months of a five-year sentence for stealing an automobile.

Arters' wife gave him several packages of cigars and kissed him good-bye as an Iowa penitentiary guard led him away.

Two cars were damaged to the extent of about $75 in an accident which occurred at 12:35 o'clock this afternoon near the intersection of Conewango avenue and Pennsylvania avenue, east, when a car operated by Ralph A. Both machines were proceeding west. No one was injured.

A petition by Andrew Turcany for permission to change his name to Andrew Lefik also was granted. Court was in session this afternoon.

OFFICIALS DISCUSS TEACHER SHORTAGES
 State College, July 29.—(P)—The problem of teacher-shortages occupied some 300 superintendents and high school principals in conference here today after they were told the school's present job is to train youths for the war effort.

"With the army and navy requiring more than 100,000 physically and mentally trained aviators and mechanics by 1943, high schools must supply the necessary mathematical training," asserted Arthur House, director of the state's school of aeronautics.

Immediate measures are required to remedy "fundamental weaknesses and inadequate instruction" in fractions and decimals, plane geometry, elementary trigonometry and transposition of simple equations, he said.
